

Tell Indian Students Why U.S. Universities & Colleges Rock!

Project Title	Tell Indian Students Why U.S. Universities & Colleges Rock!
Project Summary	Create online content for social media to showcase the great study opportunities and vibrant campus life in the United States.
Country	India
Agency	Department of State
DoS Office	N/A
Post	MUMBAI
Section	PAS
Number of Interns	3

Project Description

Seeking creative, social-media savvy students to create short films aimed at telling prospective Indian international students about studying in the U.S. Potential film topics include student orientation, student activities, interviews with newly-arrived students/students who have been in the U.S. for some time, and Indian holidays and celebrations on campus. Prospective interns should be familiar with filming and editing software, basic graphics, and have their own filming and editing equipment, which can be as simple as an iPhone and iMovie. Interns should submit a minimum of two short films, completed in a timely manner in accordance with mutually agreed upon deadlines. Interns will discuss ideas for videos with the Mumbai Social Media team, prepare scripts and shotlists for the videos, and then work with the VSFS supervisor to finalize the videos for use on social media.

Desired Skills Interests

Additional Information

The Mumbai Online Team is known for creative and engaging content within the department, and by joining us you'll not only be part of the social media team supporting one of the most visible and important missions worldwide, you'll contribute to growing and strengthening U.S.-India relations.

Language Requirements

None